

Caring for India's Working Animals

AAA partners with the Camel Rescue Centre (CRC) in Bassi, India, which is run by Help in Suffering. They see and treat many camels and other working animals every month, all presenting with various injuries and illnesses.

Two memorable cases recently seen by the veterinary team were a camel who had sustained an eye injury and a mare with severe colic. Click below to read more about these cases and the amazing work undertaken by CRC's vets to assist these animals.

Sparing Donkeys from Pain in Tanzania

Tanzania Humane Charity (TAHUCHA) is another valued partner group carrying out vital programs for donkeys in Bukombe. In this region, working donkey welfare is generally extremely poor, so TAHUCHA's veterinary program is critical for alleviating the often-extreme suffering of these innocent donkeys. TAHUCHA also strive to educate and inform owners, which is gradually eradicating the outdated attitudes and practices driving the mistreatment of these animals.

Recently, TAHUCHA reported on three cases that were particularly noteworthy. These cases involved wounds caused by scalding from hot water, cruel wooden yoke harnessing and unnecessary beating. Discover how TAHUCHA rescued and cared for these suffering donkeys, assisting them to heal and improving their welfare long-term.

Animals Benefit from Veterinary Service in Kurdistan

AAA are the sole supporters of Dr Sulaiman at the Kurdistan Organisation for Animal Rights Protection (KOARP). Dr Sulaiman and his team often treat thousands of different animals every month for a wide variety of conditions. His free veterinary service not only improves the welfare of many, many animals, but also benefits the impoverished people who depend on them.

Despite the large number of patients Dr Sulaiman attends to, there are always certain cases that stand out more than others. Recently, he reported on two animals who greatly benefitted from veterinary care: a baby donkey attacked by a hyena and a horse suffering due to an old back wound.
